Part II Course Details

1. Abstract

(A 150-word description about the course)

This course aims to introduce the literary sub-genre of travel writing. In this course students will read works from different historical periods, exploring how works of travel writing are composed and organized in linguistic and stylistic terms, and how cultural and historical discourses influence the way that travelers describe their journeys and encounters. In this way, travel writing will be read as a critically engaged genre that lays bare ideological and social tensions while also capable of advancing philosophical viewpoints about the nature of identity, mobility, and travel. As we explore the possibilities of travel writing in different genres and mediums -- including poetry, websites, audio and visual texts – students will also create their own travel texts and reflect on their own practice as writers.

2. Course Intended Learning Outcomes (CILOs)

(CILOs state what the student is expected to be able to do at the end of the course according to a given standard of performance.)

No.	CILOs	Weighting* (if applicable)	Discovery-enriched curriculum related learning outcomes (please tick where appropriate)

Participation: Students are expected to actively participate in class	v	v	v	v	v	10%
						100%

* The weightings should add up to 100%.

5. Assessment Rubrics (Grading of student achievements is based on student performance in assessment tasks/activities with the following rubrics.)

Applicable to students admitted in Semester A 2022/23 and thereafter

Assessment Task	Criterion	Excellent (A+, A, A-)	Good (B+, B)	Marginal (B-, C+, C)	Failure (F)
1. Essay	Focus and Argumentation	The response contains well thought-out ideas that are clearly expressed, original, and supported. Coherent and compelling argumentation.	Focus is clear and appropriate for the writing task. There is a sense of originality in the purpose and clear sense of argumentation.	Focus is evident but may need significant revision. Weak sense of argumentation.	The response does not have a discernible focus and/or coherent argument.
	Language	Exceptionally well composed. Words are used with precision and accuracy. Clear command of grammar.	Strong control of language and a wide lexical range. Grammatical structures are varied and well-constructed.	Effective and functional control. Basic ideas are communicated effectively. Errors may cause some distraction.	There is a high density of errors, causing strain for the reader. The meaning is sometimes lost or unclear
	Engagement	Shows a deep understanding of the relevant texts including relevant research.	The discussion of the primary and secondary texts is sufficiently detailed.	Evident discussion of the relevant texts but lacking in detail.	Very little if any engagement with primary and secondary texts
